

Stefan Riedel, Member of the Board of Directors

“My personal goal and that of adesso is to always be a key factor in guaranteeing the success of our customers. We achieve this with specialist as well as technologically experienced and highly motivated teams, who overcome current and future challenges each and every day. I believe that mutual trust, economic and cultural relevance, our sheer determination to find a solution, as well as a passion for and sense of pride in everything we do are the most important prerequisites for achieving success together with our customers. I hope to redefine this goal for myself every day. Together with the rest of the adesso ecosystem, I would like us to become a reliable innovation and implementation partner that represents the digital transformation of this industry, on top of boosting the productivity of existing business.”

Stefan Riedel (born in 1967) heads the Insurance division as a board member and is also responsible for the adesso subsidiary adesso experience GmbH.

After completing a degree in business informatics at the Baden-Württemberg Cooperative State University, Stefan Riedel undertook a traineeship at IBM Global Services in 1990. He then worked at IBM as a consultant, project manager and sales representative. After working as a consultant at IBM for the insurance sector in Central and Eastern Europe from 1999 to 2007, he served as Vice President of the financial services sector for the German-speaking world, and was in charge of strategic outsourcing at IBM in Germany, Austria and Switzerland from 2009 to 2011.

Before his appointment to the Board of Directors of adesso SE, Stefan Riedel headed the insurance sector for IBM Deutschland GmbH as chief representative from 2011 to 2017, firstly as Vice President for the German-speaking world and then for Europe from 2017.
